Huntley House Christchurch Boutique Hotel Offers Complimentary TranzAlpine Transfers

Christchurch, New Zealand (November 2007).

Christchurch boutique 5-Star boutique hotel Huntley House has announced the extension of its complimentary transfer service to include pickup and drop off at the TranzAlpine (thru Arthurs Pass) railway station, regarded as one of the best short train crossings in the world.

Guests can choose from two complimentary Huntley House free transfer services, either to the TranzAlpine railway station or Christchurch Airport utilizing classic car transfers or the luxurious Mercedes Benz 8-seater people movers.

“It is our goal to provide for every need of our guests, as well as make it easier for them to explore Christchurch, Canterbury, the Southern Alps, and the rest of New Zealand” said John Reid, owner and host of Huntley House.

Domestic and international marketing of Huntley House is managed by Navigate Oceania. For more information or graphics, contact Karine Thomas on 64 9 307 3633 or email karine@navigateoceania.com.

Editors Notes:

- Originally built in 1876 by one of Christchurch's early settlers, Huntley House has retained many of its original features resulting in a hotel that is a graceful reminder of Christchurch's colonial past. Situated between the airport and city centre and a short drive from Hagley Park, local attractions and race courses, Huntley House is the ideal base to explore Christchurch and the Canterbury region. For more information, visit their website at www.huntleyhouse.co.nz.
