Editors Notes:

- Huntley House (www.huntleyhouse.co.nz), originally built in 1876 by one of Christchurch's early settlers, has retained many of its original features resulting in a hotel that is a graceful reminder of Christchurch's colonial past. Situated between the airport and city centre and a short drive from Hagley Park, local attractions and race courses, Huntley House is the ideal base to explore Christchurch and the Canterbury region.
- Meeting facilities: Huntley House is ideally suited for small conferencing offering state-of-the-art facilities and technology; these include audio and video/projection equipment, fax, broadband/wireless internet access and photocopier. Set amongst towering trees, manicured lawns and park-like gardens, the property is an ideal meeting venue conducive to both creative thinking and business meetings. From a corporate perspective, Huntley House is a particularly versatile and flexible venue. This boutique hotel offers a dedicated meeting room as well as various other meeting options depending on the requirements of the guests.
