

Key Appointments Named at the Bolton Hotel

Wellington, NEW ZEALAND (August 2007).

The Bolton Hotel in Wellington announced three key appointments within its operations, client and business development teams.

Carrie Bagnall was named the new Hotel Manager, and will be responsible for the day to day management of the hotel. Having joined prior to the hotel's opening in 2004, Carrie brings with her a wealth of experience, having previously held both Finance and Rooms Division Manager positions for the Wellington boutique establishment.

Meredith Ellis was appointed as the new Client Relationship Manager. Meredith will be responsible for building and maintaining client relationships. Her experience in the hotel industry springs back to her front office manager roles at the Wellesley Hotel and Wharekauhau Country Estate.

And Kylie Nicholson was named as the Bolton's new Business Development Manager. She also joined the hotel prior to its opening, and will play a major role in the development of the hotel's on-line inventory. She will also work hand-in-hand with Meredith in marketing and further increasing the Bolton's client base.

Warwick Angus, Managing Director of the Bolton, said the hotel's board of directors are delighted with the new appointments. "Carrie, Meredith and Kylie offer great depth of experience to the new executive management team, and I am personally excited to be working with such an enthusiastic and youthful group of professionals. The Bolton Hotel is certainly in good hands."

Located at the junction of Wellington's central business district and political heart, Bolton Hotel offers stylish and elegant accommodation in a friendly and professional setting. For more information, visit their website at www.boltonhotel.co.nz.
